RADICAL REPUBLICAN MEETING.—A meeting of the Radical Republican Association of this place, was held last night, at Iyemum Hall, at which there were present about twenty-five whites and nearly two hundred blacks. Isaiah Brady having left the city, E. E. White (white) was chosen permanent Secretary. It was announced that the association had been called together for the purpose of endorsing the action of the Radical Convention, which met in Richmond on the 17th ult. The address and resolutions adopted by that convention having been read (during which several of the colored members fell asleep), a resolution was adopted, endorsing them as the basis of the political action of this association.

Geo. Tucker (white) made a speech announcing that the Radical party of the State numbered one hundred thousand, and would carry all the coming elections for State officers and Congress, and that twenty thousand of the laboring class of the white population were ready to join with them! He did not openly endorse Stevens' confiscation policy, though he thought it just, and asked his colored hearers to whom the lands now held by former slaveholders belonged? which question was answered by those addressed with cries of "to us," "to us." The noise made had the effect of awakening several of the sleeping brethren, and gave the speaker an opportunity to take his seat. After a very fulsome eulogy of the Richmond Radical Convention and its members, very much after the style of Underwood's "charge" on Thad. Stevens, by the "Chair," the hat was bandied round and five dollars and a few cents collected, wherewith, it was stated, to defray expenses, and the meeting was about to adjourn when one of the white members fortunately or unfortunately, as the case may be, made some enquiry in regard to the appointment of Registrars for this county, and why it was that the recommendations of the association had been entirely ignored. This bomb thrown into the camp "stirred up things," and set the meeting to going afresh. Geo. Tucker (white) intimated very plainly that the appointments had not given satisfaction, and denied that he had been consulted by Col. Lee, as had been reported. The appointments were made on the recommendation of Col. Lee, with the assistance of Lewis McKenzie. He acknowledged that Col. Lee had asked him in reference to Josiah Millard, but not being on friendly terms with M., he had declined to express any opinion. The speaker intimated that Col. Lee had acted rather strangely, and that his assertions were somewhat contradictory especially in regard to his consultations—further that because a colored man had not been appointed there had been "a bug" around Col. Lee's ears, which had caused him to write a letter requesting a change in the present board and the appointment of a colored man upon it. Josiah Millard (one of the appointed registrars) defended Col. Lee, but thought that it would have been better if a colored man had been put upon the board. He denied that Col. Lee had consulted him, as to the appointments, as had been asserted, and thought it highly improper to assail the Col. and charge him with equivocation when he was not present to defend himself. A colloquy ensued between Tucker and Millard in regard to whether the recommendations of the association had not been "out and dried" prior to the meeting, and also in reference to conversations with Col. Lee. One stated that he supposed Col. Lee thought that the interest of the colored people would be represented by Col. Lee himself as Chief of the Freedmen's Bureau and President of the Board, and therefore that it was not necessary to appoint a colored man. Another said that Col. Lee had forgotten to appoint a colored man. These statements gave much dissatisfaction to the colored portion of the meeting, who signified their disapprobation of Col. Lee's conduct by grunts and murmurs with occasional expressions of contempt—Claggett, sr., and Claggett, jr., (colored) did not want the protection of Col. Lee—could take care of themselves—one of them had been consulted, but saw plainly that there was no chance for a colored man on the Board—both knew their friends, and intimated very clearly that Col. Lee was not one of them. The remarks of the Claggetts brought to his feet a black man bearing the euphonicous cognomen of "Cupid" who proceeded in true "Congo" style to edify the meeting on general topics, starting out with the assertion that he meant to stick by the Radical party as long as he lived, and if he could not get a living here he would go "out on the broad oceans of the American continent."

He proceeded for a few moments in one of the most hifalutian grandiloquent strains of heterogeneous "African lingo" that has been heard for a long time, perfectly convulsing the meeting—white and black, and taking his seat amidst roars of laughter and stamping of feet. This speech brought out a German, who styled himself "Uncle Jake," and who gave the darkey credit for securing out a "reb" whether he wore a United States uniform or not. He did not think Col. Lee was altogether sound—knew the negroes would rule sooner or later, and never gave up his residence in Ohio until he saw a chance of being in the majority in this State. After announcements for ward meetings the meeting adjourned for four weeks unless sooner called together by the President.

THE SPIRIT OF THE MEETING LAST NIGHT.—The "speeches" made at the Radical meeting last night, breathed a worse temper, and indicated a vindictiveness on the part of the speakers that has not heretofore been exhibited in any political gathering in this place, and the base and insidious appeals made to the black men met with a response that exhibited a phase in the character of that class of the population never before witnessed hereabouts. At all times and under any circumstances such harangues would be exceedingly improper, but in the present perturbed state of public feeling, to attempt to sow dissension and discord, to stir up strife, and create malice by wanton appeals to the baser passions, deserves the condemnation of all right thinking men, no matter of what political creed. In common charity, it is to be hoped that political ends alone are sought to be subserved by this course, but none but the most selfish, who are entirely regardless of the well-being of their fellow-men can seek political preferment by such dubious means. Not content with the expressed desire to ostracise all who have held views antagonistic to those of the Radicals, these men are attempting by the method indicated above, to inaugurate in this State a "reign of terror" and include in their denunciations all who are not willing, tamely to follow their lead; even the U. S. officer in command of this sub-district has become a subject of their assaults, for acting as in his judgment seems best to promote the interest of all parties, and a deliberate attempt is made to array the blacks against him by this faction, because he will not be dictated to by them, and will not join in the crusade against the citizens, and give his countenance to their designs. His course has been dictated by the policy which prompts a soldier and gentleman, and he will doubtless be fully sustained by his superior officers.

HOOK AND LADDER COMPANY.—A well-attended meeting of the young men of this city, favorable to the formation of a Hook and Ladder Company, was held last night, in the rooms of the Old Dominion Base Ball Club, No. 69, King street. The Committee appointed at a previous meeting to solicit subscriptions to the fund being raised to equip the Company, when formed, reported that they had obtained three hundred and fifty dollars, one hundred of which have been contributed by Mr. Geo. Ira Thomas, as agent for four Insurance Companies; that other Insurance agents had promised to subscribe as soon as they could hear from their companies, and that many citizens, besides those whose names were recorded on the list, had signified their intention of contributing when called upon. Circumstances being considered propitious, a permanent organization of the "Relief Hook and Ladder Company," was effected by the election of Capt. J. M. Stewart as President; R. M. Latham, Vice President; George R. Shinn, Secretary; John G. Adam, Treasurer; J. P. Jordan, Commander of Truck. The meeting then, after the appointment of Capt. J. M. Stewart, R. M. Latham, J. P. Jordan, George R. Shinn and Malcolm McLean, as delegates to attend the Firemen's Convention, to be held next Monday night, in the hall of the Sun Fire Company, adjourned, to meet again at future notice.

CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO CANAL.—A notice of the breaks that occurred yesterday on the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal was published in yesterday's Gazette. The following additional particulars of the break at Georgetown are obtained this morning. About four o'clock yesterday morning the bank of the canal between Welch's flouring mill and the Cumberland Coal Company's docks, gave way, causing a fearful flow of water, which would have done a vast amount of damage to the adjoining property, had it not been somewhat checked by Mr. Welch and others, filling the break with boards, bales of hay, &c. The bank at that place is about fifteen feet wide, and was made by building a dry stone wall filled in with earth, which it is supposed, the rats had burrowed, causing the water to leak through and undermine the bank, and form an opening between the walls of the embankment for a length of 100 feet or more. The lower part of Welch's mill was overflowed, and considerable damage done to the grain stored there. The Cumberland Coal Comp'y sustained some slight damage also. These particulars are from the Washington Union.

The Superintendent immediately set his men to work to repair the damages, and they expect to be able to let the water in next Monday. In the meantime the mills and manufacturing operations with water power will cease, and no boats can pass into the Aqueduct.

RELEASE OF ACCOMPLISHED VILLAINS.—On Sunday, the 21st of April, as stated in the Gazette at that time, four men, Phil. Stanley, Wm. Walton, Jos. Buford, and Jack Wright, were brought to this city, from Washington, by Col. Wood and W. W. Levy, detectives, and confined separately, and each with a guard, in four rooms in the attic of the Mansion House. They were arrested for the robbery of Paymaster Belknap, in the Brooklyn Navy Yard, four years ago, of $130,000 of government money, and were brought to this city to avoid the possibility of a release under a writ of habeas corpus, which had been applied for in their behalf in Washington city. They remained—with the exception of Wright, who escaped about a week ago—in their agreeable prison house, bounteously supplied with the delicacies of the season and choicest brands of liquors, until Thursday evening last, when, without Judge or Jury they were turned loose. As a well-known individual of Brentsville would say "what works!" "what works!"

THE MARKET, this morning, was very abundantly supplied—presenting a fine show of meats, fish, vegetables, and country produce generally. Lettuce, sprouts, kale, radishes, &c., &c., were a little lower than they were last Saturday, and in greater quantities. The butchers had fine pork, veal and lamb, at former rates—some of the veal was the best we have seen in market this spring. The fish benches were filled with shad, herring and other fish. Shad 50 cts. per pair for best—Sturgeon is beginning to come to market freely—and the price ought to decline. It is now from 8 a 10 cts. per lb. Butter 35 a 40 cts. for print. Eggs 22 a 25 cts. per dozen.

JAIL DELIVERY.—Last night, about eight o'clock, five negro men who have been incarcerated in the county jail of this county, for some weeks past, charged with being participants in several robberies lately committed in this city, and named respectively John Palmer, alias Mosely, Overton Jackson, James Chapman, John Turner and Robert Coleman, effected their escape, and were, at last accounts, still at large. The manner in which they broke jail was as follows: They were confined together in a large cell on the second floor. In the wood work surrounding the lock on the door of this cell they had burnt with a red hot poker a hole sufficiently large to enable them to draw the bolt. Between six and eight o'clock yesterday evening they drew this bolt, and emerging from the cell, descended the stairs, and secreted themselves near the door of the main entrance. About eight o'clock, Mr. Archibald Fleming, the turnkey, on opening this entrance door, was instantly knocked down and run over by the entire party, as was also the wife of the jailor, Mr. Padgett, who had come with Mr. Fleming to the door to lock it, after he had entered, and making directly for the street door, opposed only by a widowed daughter of the jailor, whom they met in the passage, and in whose hands one of them left his coat and hat, in his efforts to break loose from the grasp she had upon him, opened it, and were soon lost to sight. As Mr. Fleming was knocked down he was cut on the hand, but not seriously injured, by what he supposed was a razor. Intelligence was at once conveyed to the police and constables of the city, and pursuit immediately instituted, and it is reported that three of the escaped prisoners were seen about five o'clock this morning, near the house on the Fredericksburg road, formerly occupied as a tavern by Mrs. Cash, about four miles below this city, with four officers on their track, one mile behind them.

The Sheriff has, as will be seen by an advertisement in to-day's Gazette, offered a reward for the arrest of these thieves, and it is thought they will be recaptured.

The following is the statement of the jailor, Mr. Padgett:

Yesterday, at 6 o'clock p. m., Mr. J. Padgett, jailor of this county, served out supper in the jail. The prisoners who have escaped were turned into their room, as usual. Between that time and 8 o'clock, when prisoners are usually put in their cells, they succeeded in burning the facing of the door in which the bolt of their prison door is locked, and in their stocking feet, quietly descended from the upper story to the front door; and when the turnkey, Mr. Fleming, opened the front door for the purpose of locking them up, they arose from their stooping position, unobserved, and made a rush, knocking down Mr. Fleming, and cutting him on the hand with a razor, in the hands of one of them named Chapman. Mrs. Padgett, who was in the rear of Mr. Fleming, for the purpose of locking the door after Mr. F., was also knocked down by one of the desperadoes. Mr. Padgett, in the room near to the door, hearing the fall of Mr. Fleming, sprang to his feet for his assistance, but too late, his wife and turnkey were prostrate, and the prisoners too far gone. This morning he called upon the Justices composing the Committee on Public Property, and after an examination of the premises, and hearing all the testimony from the prisoners, have given the jailor the following as their opinion of this unfortunate matter:

We the undersigned Committee on Public Property represent that we have this day examined the jail and the cell from whence the prisoners made their escape, and find that the escape was effected by means of burning the wood in the facing of the door of the prison in which the prisoners were confined, sufficient to loosen the bolt, and enable them to open the door of the cell, and this place themselves near the front door leading into the jail, or upon the steps, which they could easily descend, and with a sudden rush, when the jail door opened, they broke through the door, and in this way made their escape, and we therefore cannot find that there has been any dereliction of duty on the part of the jailor.

CONFISCATION SUIT.—In September, 1863, the west half of lot No. 5, Washington city, on F. street, between Sixth and Seventh, improved by a fine brick dwelling, the property of Col. H. B. Tyler, formerly of the U. S. Marine Corps, was libelled under the confiscation act, Col. Tyler having gone South; and the court of the District made a decree directing the sale of the life estate in said property.—Mr. J. D. Deftrees became the purchaser.—Upon the close of the war, Col. Tyler brought suit against the United States to recover his property, and an appeal was taken from the judgment of the court below to the District Supreme Court, and the appeal has been pending for some time. Yesterday, Mr. R. T. Merrick, counsel for Col. Tyler, withdrew the appeal, and proposes to move in the District Court below to have the decree set aside.

CORN AND PRODUCE EXCHANGE.—As will be seen by reference to an advertisement in another column in to-day's Gazette, a meeting of the Board of Managers of the Corn and Produce Exchange will be held on Monday evening next the 13th inst., at 4 o'clock, in the hall of the association over the Auction and Commission Store of Mr. J.
